UPDATE ON MY WIFE: I spoke with the nurses, therapist and doctor today. She is making progress, but more slowly than after her first operation. This very long stay in the hospital is having a very negative effect on her mind. It is terribly stressful. It would be for anyone. She is getting very desperate to make enough progress to go home. She needs grace to be patient enough to pace her recovery, yet not to give in to lack of progress. It's a tough deal. The doctor expects her to leave the hospital in another month. Then therapy will need to continue here at home. We have funds enough to take care of the present and for some time in the future. Of course we do not know just how much those costs will be. For all these matters we ask your prayers. We continue to prepare for year end evangelist meeting, and distributing of Gospel tracts, etc. In the Grace of Jesus, Carlton & Dot
